

Welcome!

Dear Aviation Professionals,

This year's 53rd Annual Wisconsin Aviation Conference will be held May 5 - 7, 2008, at the Radisson Paper Valley Hotel in Appleton. Once again, the conference committee has planned an exciting and informative conference of interest to all facets of the aviation community, from private pilots and corporate flight departments to general aviation and air carrier airports with airport management and commissioners, fixed base operators and other aviation service providers.

The conference will kick off Monday, May 5th, with golf at the Chaska Golf Course, or a round of sporting clays at Hunter's Park. Both events will be followed by an evening reception and supper. Tuesday May 6th, will start with updates from state and federal agencies in general sessions, a discussion on "The Jet" from Cirrus Design, and what airport operators can expect in terms of service needs for the Very Light Jet crowd, soon to be landing at an airport near you. Paul Poberezny, Founder and Chairman of the Experimental Aircraft Association, will be our distinguished speaker. Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning will feature breakout sessions on a wide range of pertinent topics.

We look forward to sharing ideas and spending quality time with you. I hope to see you in Appleton!

Sincerely,
The Wisconsin Aviation Conference Planning Committee
